Help for Healing Fund

Because Everyone's Health Matters

The Natural Care Center, which includes the University Teaching Clinic, is the primary teaching clinic for the University, providing effective and compassionate care in natural health. Through the generosity of our donors and clinicians, we offer highly discounted services to many patients and clients, including senior citizens, military veterans, and students. The Help for Healing Fund was established in 2015 to increase access to clinical services by subsidizing patient and client visits in the University Teaching Clinic. Over the past 12 months, 186 patients have benefitted from the Help for Healing Fund (FY17). The Help for Healing Fund is also designed to assist our students meet their required number of patient visits. Currently, each student may have up to two patients who are beneficiaries of the fund. By supporting the Help for Healing Fund you help provide access to more individuals who could not otherwise afford care and allow students to more efficiently meet their clinical requirements.

TEAM CARE: UNIVERSITY TEACHING CLINIC

As a university teaching clinic, we offer the best of integrative health care – a thoughtful, planned approach that bridges contemporary science with traditional wisdom. With our team care model, you receive highly effective and compassionate health services from graduate student interns under the supervision of faculty supervisors who are experienced licensed or certified professionals.

SERVICES OFFERED

Our student interns and faculty provide optimal healing possibilities through acupuncture, the healing properties of herbs, the wisdom of naturopathic medicine, the power of integrative and functional nutrition, and the use of breath, movement and mindfulness in yoga therapy.

LIST OF SERVICES

- Acupuncture Treatments
- Chinese Herbal Medicine Consultations
- Naturopathic Medicine Consultations
